HUM 341-DL Revolution and Society in Cold War Latin America (1 Unit)

Examination of revolutionary movements in Cold War Latin America.

HUM 341-PP Revolution and Society in Cold War Latin America (1 Unit)

This course examines revolutionary movements in Cold War Latin America, paying particular attention to three nations in which leftist movements came to power: Cuba, Chile, and Nicaragua, examining the relationship between revolutionary leaders and their nations' citizens, foreign influences on the trajectory of each nations' politics, and the lived experience of revolutionary times. This course focuses as well on developing students' understanding of how historians construct arguments and how to evaluate competing historical interpretations of events. NPEP course.
