

MIDDLE EAST AND NORTH AFRICAN LANGUAGES

mena-languages.northwestern.edu (<https://mena-languages.northwestern.edu/>)

The MENA Languages Program offers an array of interesting language and culture courses in Arabic, Hebrew, and Turkish, in addition to tutoring services for enrolled students and regular cultural programming such as language tables, movie nights, and guest speakers. Students in the MENA languages program acquire important language skills and a fresh perspectives on the cultures and people of the MENA region (stretching from Morocco to Iran) which is a very diverse region with more than sixty languages being spoken throughout.

The MENA Languages Program aims to develop proficient and confident speakers, who, through exposure to a new language and its rich culture, will be able to extend the limits of how they see, understand, talk about, and interact with the world. The program pursues the following objectives:

- Provide expert language instruction to ensure that communication in the foreign language is effective in a variety of academic, career-related, or personal situations, and for multiple purposes.
- Provide opportunities to enrich students' knowledge of the target culture by encouraging them to investigate, explain, and reflect on practices and perspectives.
- Encourage students to make comparisons between the target culture and their own so that they can identify and understand similarities and differences.
- Provide cultural events for students to make connections between the different cultures, and to learn to comprehend and accept diverse perspectives.
- Encourage students to venture outside the classroom (for example, through study abroad) to apply and practice their linguistic and cultural skills by interacting and collaborating with and within communities of different ethnicities and cultures.

Study Abroad

The faculty in the MENA Languages Program works carefully with students to integrate a period of study abroad into their overall academic plans. By living in the new culture and interacting with native speakers of Arabic, Hebrew, and Turkish, students typically return with a much firmer grasp of both written and spoken language as well as a more balanced international perspective. Students who have special interests and needs are welcome to investigate programs and discuss opportunities with the faculty.
